

Student Ambassador Of the Month

James Keats

Junior Game Programming Major

James' legendary eye roll shot him right to the top. His love of santa hats and grumpy cats (also grinding) is what sets him apart and above the rest. People had a lot to say about why James deserved SAotM for "winter":

- As a new SA, I've learned so much from James. Even when he's exhausted, he puts the team first and his positive attitude is infectious. He's led a great example as a veteran and I'll really miss working with him next semester! I think giving him this would be a lovely send-off. :)
- He has been great at trying to get all the new people their wings. He has also been great at organizing who goes on what tour.
- Office: James has been under immense stress this semester and has really done a fantastic job at making sure everyone gets their wings. He always puts a smile on regardless of how he feels, and this semester would have been a mess without him. He is the Student Ambassador of the Semester.
- Office: I would like to nominate the ever impressive, James Keats. His ability to keep all of us engaged and active is inspiring and I believe he deserves to be honored for his dedication.
- James has been a great leader all semester and keeps the office both fun and productive! Ja Mez
- Because he's been a dope tour trainer (even if he does place too much importance on the Grind). He's always been willing to help everyone improve their tours, keep the tour script up to date and all that other tour stuff.
 - Definitely James. He's done a really awesome job this semester and has taken on a lot.
- With so many new people he was able to make sure everyone went through the wings processed and showed that he cared about their progress- the wings progress tracker is a really great idea! He sets a great example of how to give a good tour and is great and scheduling people to tours, especially with the business of the bus trip and large Saturday sessions with lots of guests.

- Always see her giving tours lately and has great energy
- I think she's done an incredible job and is always down to give a tour or even two.
 - She's been a great role model for the new folks and a constant bright personality in the office.
- I would be willing to bet that she has given more tours this semester than any other SA. She always welcomes assignments, always has great energy, and gives excellent tours. She has been a great influence on the new members of the team, and I think is the most deserving of the award, especially if it's meant to cover the whole semester

- Her love for giving tours showed with an explosion of excitement after getting her wings and that kind of flare deserves recognition.
- Tara for being so dedicated to the wings process and genuinely PUMPED when she got her wings. The first thing she said, as she was collapsed on the ground in joyous tears, was "I can't wait to give tours!"
Now THAT is a Student Ambassador.
- Tara got her wings!! Every time I bring it up, she mentions how she wants to stay humble- but I tell her I get bragging rights and she laughs. Go Tara!
 - Tara for getting her wings!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!

Student Ambassador Of the Month

Megan Sullivan
Senior Public Relations Major

IT'S MEGAN'S LAST SEMESTER. That being said, this chick _____ SAotM. Her dedication to the team has been incredible and we'll miss her so much! Great things will happen for you Meg! Here are a few things we're sending you off with:

- She is always a helpful friend and was really encouraging in my wings process. I know myself and all the other team members who have known her longer will miss her lots in future semesters.
- Because she's always willing to answer questions and provide guidance and is in general exude a positive energy
- She's done an awesome job despite it being her last semester and is always will to take on projects.
- Every time I work with Megan in the office she is a lot of fun to be around and talk with. She's easy to talk to, always offers to help, and gives great ideas!
